THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

VOLUME 25. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1871. NUMBER 74.

WHAT REMAINS OF THE CITY.

A Gathering Together of the Relics of Chicago.

A City of Over 200,000 Inhabitants Still in Existence.

An Exact Statement of the Number of Buildings Destroyed.

What We Now Have that Did Not Exist in 1860.

For the last week, our thoughts have been so buried with what was destroyed by the great fire, that we have not since attention whatever to that which remained. So great were our losses, so immense the destruction in buildings and other property, that we could at first think only of that; and did not have the heart to gather together the relics of the city, and estimate their value. But as a man, after he is fully convinced that it is useless to weep over his destroyed home, sets to work to dig in the ruins, and draws comfort and satisfaction from every article that he extracts therefrom, though it be in a somewhat damaged condition, so we, the first shock once over, catalogue what we have saved, and find that Chicago is yet a city, with more of the elements of material prosperity by far, than she had ten years ago, and that her losses are not irreparable, so long as that energy and determination which built those costly edifices and planned and carried out these astonishing improvements remain undimmed and unsiezed.

THE TOTAL AREA OF THE CITY of Chicago, including the annexed territory west of Western avenue, and also including streets, etc., is over 23,000 acres. Of this the South Division embraces 5,383, and the North Division 2,333½. The total number of buildings in the city was about 60,000, of which about 17,000 were on the south, and 10,500 on the north side of the river, the best and costliest—the ones in which the citizens of Chicago took the most pride—being in the South Division, and north of Jackson street. On the North Side there were many elegant dwelling houses, but they were nearly all east of Wells street and north of North Avenue, those lying near the river, on Brenner, Wesson, Lorrabee, and other streets, being of a very inferior class. There were also large sections on the North Side in which there were no houses. The district between the North Branch and the Ogden Canal, on one side, and Lincoln Park and the old cemetery on the other, was unoccupied, and there was much vacant ground further up on the North Branch.

ON THE SOUTH SIDE

1,200 acres were burned over out of the 2,500 in that Division, leaving about a small portion on Kinzie street near the river, and several houses north of Division and west of Orchard, including some of the handsomest edifices in Chicago on avenue. The total number of buildings destroyed was 16,000, including over six hundred churches and one hundred manufacturing establishments. About 70,000 persons were deprived of homes, and are at present sojourning in the West, South, or left the city. Out of a population of 77,000 only about 7,000 have houses which they can claim as their own, and even these are all over 600 houses laid standing, for the district burned over embraced most of the settled area of the North Division.

WHAT REMAINS.

It appears, then, that out of the 60,000 buildings in Chicago, only about 15,500 have been destroyed, and that while 93,000 persons have been driven from their homes, over 245,000 have not been affected in that way. The whole mansion area of the West Division, with the exception of a few miles of dwelling-h ses, its stores and business blocks, is almost intact, while the South side retains the great mass of its dwellin houses of the latter class, many manufactories, and the fine business blocks which have been erected on Michigan avenue, Wabash avenue, and at other points, many of the finest churches, and the immense manufactories which abound in the Sixth Ward.

When the smoke of the fire had cleared away, and people began to look at it coolly, they were surprised to see what they never observed before, the number of fine blocks in the West Division and the central part of the South Side. These few remaining limestone fronts, relics of the architectural splendor of Chicago, were scattered with peculiar effect, and the solid brick blocks, which have been looked at only with indifference, became a valuable and noteworthy structure. While the business houses driven south, had, as a general thing, to take refuge in private dwellings, and to put out their signs on streets hitherto unpolluted by trade, those who moved across the river into commodious stores where they were able to at once recommence operations. The large buildings on Randolph, Canal, Madison, and other streets, which had not been rented, except for a trifling sum, suddenly became the most valuable property in the city. At the present time the West Side was a city in itself, and only able to take care of its own business, but also that of the whole city, and the wholesale and manufacturing interests of the West Division, which had been looked at only with indifference, became a valuable and noteworthy structure. While the business houses driven south, had, as a general thing, to take refuge in private dwellings, and to put out their signs on streets hitherto unpolluted by trade, those who moved across the river into commodious stores where they were able to at once recommence operations. The large buildings on Randolph

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1871.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has opened its offices at No. 15 South Canal street, West Division, and the paper will hereafter be regularly issued from that place till further notice.

To Advertisers.

We devote all the space we can possibly spare to advertisers in this morning's paper, and those who find that their advertisements are left out will pardon it to the necessity of giving a fair portion of our columns to the reading public. The demand for intelligence is not only insatiable, but it is absolutely necessary to the welfare of the people and the city that much of that which we publish should go to the public. We divide our space between the reader and the advertiser, and that is the best we can do for both classes. The advertiser will understand that the earlier in the day he gives us what he wishes to have published, and the smaller the space into which he condenses it, the more likely it is to find a place in our columns.

To Our Country Subscribers.

We have received many letters of inquiry from our country subscribers desiring information as to the probable time when we shall be able to supply them with THE TRIBUNE, as of old. We reply at the very earliest possible moment. The principal difficulty in the way now is the Chicago Post Office, which is unable to distribute our paper for the mails, owing to the disarrangement of their system of doing that work. Another difficulty, which will cause some delay, is the destruction of the machinery used in our office for putting the names of the subscribers upon the papers. These are the leading difficulties in the way; but we hope this will be remedied within a very few days, when we shall be able to resume our relations with our country subscribers. In the meantime, although the capacity of our power press is limited, we hope each day to send a few thousand copies of THE TRIBUNE into the country by train boys. We bespeak the indulgence of our country friends, assuring them that no effort within human power will be spared to bring perfect order out of the present chaos.

☞ We have full and perfect copies of our subscription lists.

THE REAL ESTATE WRANGLERS.

The better portion of the community will regret that all the wrangling real estate speculators who are pulling each other's hair over the ashes of the best part of Chicago were not incapacitated on that fatal Sunday night for the display of their peculiar qualities. We have refrained, up to this time, from alluding to them, because we could not afford to let the outside world know that we have such base characters in our midst. The work of supplying the needy and destitute, the houseless and supperless, must go on, and it must not be stopped or checked by the infuriate greed of a few miserable squabblers in acre property or corner lots. They had better betake themselves elsewhere, for the public can make better use of their room than of their company for some time to come.

The great strife now is to wrest from the South Division the prominence which it has heretofore enjoyed as a wholesale business centre. The thing cannot be done, not even though the owners of property in the burnt district should join in the effort. In the first place, the West Division is the same sort of a tinder-box as the South Division was before the fire—only more so. New builders and new owners of valuable goods will not put their property in such exposed places. In truth, the burnt district is the only absolutely safe place in the city to-day. The North Division is in better shape to carry off the wholesale trade than the West Division. The West Division cannot make any impression on that trade till it has had a great fire to sweep off existing buildings and make room for new ones of non-combustible character. And the same argument will govern the building of the great Union Depot.

Aside from this consideration, the forces of geography and topography, and all the other natural forces, are working with silent might to rebuild the burnt district for the use and behoof of the same interests that were a few days since consumed. History does not furnish an instance where a burned district of a city has not been rebuilt in the same general way as before the fire. The same kind of business has returned to the old places, because these places were the natural and most convenient and most profitable places for it to go. It is simply impossible to reverse this law.

WASTE OF WATER.

It is not pleasant to record any evidence of thoughtless selfishness at a time of great public distress, and we are all glad to feel that thus far the universal temper of the people, of all classes, has been one of public consideration and personal self-sacrifice. But we note an instance to the contrary which ought not to be passed over in silence. The welcome gurgle of the water in all our houses, two days ago, was a relief which can only be understood by those who suffered the deprivation and lived through the depressing anxiety, on that account, of the last ten days. The fresh and vivid remembrance of even that brief famine, which concerned not merely our comfort, but left us at the mercy of any fire that should break out, would, one would think, have made everybody as careful of the returning water, and considerate of the necessity of not wasting it, as they were joyful at its return. Those who were not thus mindful of an inestimable blessing, we trust, were the exception and not the rule; but nevertheless there was not much oftener than was pleasant a reckless waste of that which only a few hours before was brought laboriously in buckets from the lake, which no human power could have given us in any useful or hardly appreciable quantity in case of fire, and which there was no certainty might not again be cut off in a few hours by trouble in the mains and the inevitable waste in the burnt district. People brought out their hose to water their grass-plots, to wash their house-fronts and windows, to throw it everywhere with lavish hand, and were as prodigal as its use at all if they had never known the want of it, or had no fear of ever losing it again. It was, no doubt, owing partly to this recklessness that water was so scarce on the West Side soon after it was in full head on the South Side, creating a general feeling of uneasiness, lest another conflagration should break out and destroy what is left of that division. Now, if the individuals, many or few, who are thus destitute of any sense of public obligation, cannot be shamed into a proper consideration of public necessity and public feeling, then theirs are cases which call for the exercise of legal coercion. The management of the water of the city is of vital importance; nor can there be too much vigilance exercised, not only in providing a supply, but in guarding against waste. Within the houses it is difficult to do this, except by an appeal to the common sense and common humanity of the people; but out of doors it should not be permitted for a moment wherever it is discovered. It is not only the comfort of the people under the circumstances, the least consideration—but the safety of the city and the health of the inhabitants that are concerned. Whatsoever water is not absolutely essential as pure air, and that the city cannot submit to any long deprivation of it for any cause.

While Chicago burned and the people of New York were reading the account of the burning of Chicago, each week of devastation, they forgot their own local grief over the loss by robberies, complimented by the "Four Corners" (printers), which had robbed the city debt in ten years, swelling it from forty millions in 1860 to one hundred and twenty millions in 1870. But there again sounded the contemptible cries of the heroes, which is only exceeded in its baseness by that suffered by this fire-swept city.

The Citizens' Investigation Committee had, up to Saturday last, located more than fifteen millions of the stolen money in the possession of the following partners of Tweed, Sweeney, Connolly, and Hall, chiefly abstracted last year and the first half of this year:

Ketcham & Co.	$ 1,561,619.42
Ingersoll & Co.	6,000,301.72
C. D. Baltar & Co.	961,911.84
J. A. Smith	800,259.56
A. G. Miller	626,896.74
G. H. Miller	1,568,447.60
A. J. Garvey and others	3,112,580.34
G. L. Schuyler	463,609.27
J. McMeekin Davidson	694,547.75
K. Jones & Co.	341,862.18
C. T. Jacobs	164,925.17
Archibald Hall, Jr.	346,062.85
J. W. Smith	53,852.65
New York Printing Company	2,041,799.99
Total	$15,457,063.65

The Citizens' Committee are sanguine of tracing as much more of the plunder into the dens of the Tammany beasts of prey. What became of the rest of the money may never be known.

ABOUT RADIATING STREETS

The New York World essays to show how we should rebuild Chicago so as to make it the model city of the world. Its intent is evidently good, but its advice is founded upon a misapprehension of the present state of affairs in this city. The World tells us that the New Chicago must have a system of radiating streets, like those of Washington, and of Paris since its reconstruction by Haussman. It remarks, in behalf of such a plan, that the rectangular plan "not only substitutes the prosaic for the picturesque, but is really the most inconvenient plan upon which a city can be built." The Herald takes up the same refrain, tells us how Washington is built, and adds:

"This is the plan for the reconstruction of Chicago—these radiating, broad avenues and the open places which they create at the points of intersection with each other and the principal streets. Thus, with these avenues, you will have broad barriers of protection against the spreading of a fire in any direction, and in these open spaces good points for great reservoirs of water, and secure places for the storing of goods and household effects in the event of a threatening fire in the neighborhood."

One of these journals goes so far as to recommend that we isolate all our buildings by surrounding each of them with a neat garden and other modern improvements too numerous to mention. The radiating streets and three-cornered plazas, however, are the feature for which our Eastern friends stickle the most—the sine qua non, it seems, of their New Chicago.

Now, fortunately (or these Haussmanites may esteem it a misfortune), Chicago's streets are not burned up. They stand, all through the devastated district, almost the only monument to remind us that there was once a great city there. These streets have cost us many millions of dollars; and they have not only proved worth the money, but bid fair to vindicate their value many times over before we get the city built again. Supposing the wheel-spoke system of streets to be the best one, and that our citizens would have opportunity and grace, amidst all their other cares of the next five years, to learn how to "radiate" successfully according to the proposed system, they have not the money wherewith to put it in operation. Every important street in the burnt district is well paved and curbed, and not destroyed, as our Eastern contemporaries seem to think. We must thank God for this mercy, and proceed to improve it to the best advantage. Indeed, we are proceeding in this way, for rows of permanent buildings are already rising up in rows, like Cadmus' warriors, all along the old streets. The hints for Haussmanizing Chicago will, therefore, have to be postponed for the present, or passed along for the benefit of some of the new cities to the westward. Probably the only essential alteration in the plan of our city which is entirely practicable is that which pertains to the railroad system, and which contemplates a better centralizing of depot facilities.

ERRONEOUS IMPRESSIONS.

The New York Tribune enumerates, among the causes rendering Chicago an unsafe city for insurance risks, the scarcity in the supply of water. This is erroneous. There was no scarcity of water on the occasion of the late fire until the pumping works were destroyed; and long before that time the fire had passed beyond all human control, and had already destroyed the business part of the city. The fire took place on Sunday, on which day the supply of water was equal to the capacity of a fire apparatus twice as extensive as our own. That fire department, under ordinary circumstances, could have kept this fire within very small limits, but the gale and the dry condition of every exposed part of buildings incidental to a long drought defeated every exertion. The gale carried the fire in some distances over half a mile beyond where the firemen were bravely contending with it, and thus it was burning at several points at the same time, and from each point the wind was bearing burning brands to cause new conflagrations.

The Springfield Republican, in an article on the fire, says:

"We have now data enough to form a pretty clear idea of how it happened. Given, a city for the most part built of wood; the pavements soaked with tar, a long drought, and a violent gale of wind."

The "city for the most part built of wood" we must probably own up to; the drought and the gale of wind there is no disputing, for they have unfortunately left an indelible record behind them. But the block pavement cannot reasonably be charged with any considerable measure of blame for the catastrophe of last week. The block pavement still stands in good order throughout all its long stretches, excepting in a few places, mostly on the North Side, where it has been seriously injured (not, by any means, destroyed) by the showers of brands and cinders and avalanches of red-hot bricks which fell upon it. It is doubtful, indeed, whether any stone pavement would have stood the siege better. The heaviest of stone sidewalks have, for the most part, yielded to the calcining process, and are total ruins. Our plank sidewalks were simply damnable, and served their purpose of trains to carry flames much better than they have ever served as footways for our surging population. These had not been entirely supplanted, even in the best business quarters, and more than one magnificent building was set on fire by them. It is not probable, however, that any fire was communicated by means of the block pavements. They are probably the cheapest pavements for Chicago, and have proved, when laid, decidedly durable through both wear and fire. The streets composed of them now form a network of smooth thoroughfares through the burnt district which will prove exceedingly valuable in rebuilding.

A WOMAN'S COMMITTEE NEEDED

It was inevitable that in the first confusion of distribution of supplies to the sufferers by the late fire there should be a good deal of waste, much given to those who were not in need, and many whose solicitudes were the greatest should be left in want. Happily, out of this confusion order has arisen, and, under the efficient and energetic action of committees at headquarters, these abuses are corrected, and those really in want are taken care of as far as possible. It is, nevertheless, certain that there are many, chiefly women of the better class, in great need both of clothing and food, and who are unable to struggle in the crowd asking for relief, and who shrink from the publicity of the necessary cross-questioning at the committee rooms, and from stating their wants to men. The demand for relief to this class is imperative, for there must be among those composing it much hidden suffering. Cases of this sort should go to women, and we can conceive of no good reason why there should not be a Women's Committee, acting in conjunction with the General Committee, to whom all cases of this sort be referred, or to which ladies can apply who would rather suffer than go with a statement of their wants before gentlemen. There are ladies in the southern section of the city perfectly capable of discharging duties of this sort, who are already devoting themselves to this work, but whose labors will be much more efficient under an official organization acting in conjunction with the General Relief Committee. To such a committee special duties may be assigned, as, for instance, the giving out of underclothing, and rules adopted to avoid the duplication of distribution.

A LAW LIBRARY.

The lawyers, or some of them, of Pittsfield, Missouri, have despatched to this city a quantity of flour for the benefit of families of suffering members of the profession. No class is more prompt to respond in any time of great distress than are members of the bar. Nearly every lawyer of the city—certainly all the prominent firms and persons of the profession—had their offices in the burnt district of the South Side. Many of them had large and very valuable libraries, the accumulation of years, and all had books, many or few, in their shelves. And, with the Court House, was burned the library of the Law Institute, one of the largest and most valuable public law libraries in all the country. Its doors were always open, and its books were always at the service of the many lawyers from abroad who have occasion, almost constantly, to visit Chicago.

There is probably not a single collection of law books left in the city which has any pretension to be called a library. It is doubtful if even in the whole city a complete set of the Illinois Reports could be gathered together.

We have no doubt if the profession at large knew of the utter and universal prostration of the Chicago bar, in regard to libraries, the bar of the country would only be too ready and willing to come to their relief, and contribute books or money toward founding in our city a law library to repair our loss. The LAW INSTITUTE, an incorporation under the management of the most reputable and responsible members of our bar, would be the means of making such liberality most secure, permanent, effective, and of the most immediate and gen eral ervice.

We are at a loss to understand what is meant by one of the city newspapers, which says that THE TRIBUNE is "lending itself to a speculating scheme in Hyde Park lands." We suppose that this is a dodge to secure a notice, so that the public may be informed that the said newspaper has at last been resurrected, and is now ready to take a place in the rear of the Evening Mail in the work of building up or pulling down Chicago, as the case may be.

THE LAW COURTS.

Attachment Against Non-Residents—Dispossessing Squatters.

Meeting of the Judges—Records Saved by a Cautious Clerk.

Circuit Court.

NOTICE.

It was understood last evening that the Judges of the Circuit Court, having in charge the common law business of this court, would adopt an order in relation to the reinstatement of causes upon the law docket, similar in all respects to that intended to be entered in the Superior Court upon the first day of the November term, (which was published yesterday), the dates being, of course, changed so as to conform to the convenience of the terms which commence on the third Mondays instead of the first Mondays of each month. On this matter, however, a determination was not arrived at by Judges Rogers and Booth, each taking time to fully consider the matter.

ATTACHMENT—NON-RESIDENTS.

An attachment issued in the suit of Philip and Julius Smith, co-partners, against David and S. K. Ellis (Ellis & Co.) who are charged as non-residents and as absconding debtors. Plaintiffs allege that defendants are indebted to them in the sum of $3,000, for which an order for draft drawn upon the Real Estate Loan and Trust Company of Chicago, on the 7th day of October, for payment at sight, was executed, and which check has not been paid.

ATTACHMENT—NON-RESIDENTS.

An action of assumpsit was commenced by Elizabeth Maddox against Henry VanNatta. Plaintiff claims $1,000 damages for alienation, and the suit is brought upon two promissory notes alleged to have been executed by the defendant to the order of W. J. Kelvey, and indorsed them to A. Wample, from whom they came next to plaintiff.

—An action of assumpsit was commenced by Alexander Dickinson against H. H. Harris, by which demand is made for $5,000.

Judges' Meeting.

SUB-COMMITTEE ON RESTORATION OF RECORDS.

A meeting of the Judges of the Circuit Court, in pursuance of the delegation by the bar of Chicago to them of the authority to appoint a committee to meet the committee of the bar, consisting of Messrs. Lyman Trumbull, Judge Blodgett, of the United States Circuit and District Courts; Judge Drummond, of the United States Circuit Court; of the Superior Court, Judges Jameson, Gary, and Porter. Judges Harvell and Scanlan, of the Circuit Court, were also present, and Judge H. W. Blodgett was elected President, and Judge Gary Secretary.

After some conversation it was resolved that Judges Gary, of the Superior Court; Rogers, of the Circuit Court, under a law of this State, and Judge Blodgett, of the United States Circuit and District Courts; Judge Drummond, of the United States Circuit Court; of the Superior Court, Judges Jameson, Gary, and Porter, Judges Harvell and Scanlan, of the Circuit Court, be requested to meet on Monday next, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the rooms of the Law Institute, in the Court House, and that all the members be requested to be present.

Judge H. W. Blodgett was elected Permanent Chairman, and Judge Gary Secretary.

Judge Blodgett stated that owing to the continuance of the Clerk of the United States Court in the city, and the safety of the books of the Department of the Federal Government consisting of the records in the United States Courts, probably a memorandum of every suit and judgment could be obtained, with the warrant of the Marshal, and a certificate from the Clerk that the same stands, and that where being refused any interpleas, but the contractors are not seriously in default, the privilege of resuming her maiden name, Elliott, the child Charles was given for care to its father, and the other was to live with its aunt, now Mrs. Mary Horton, until October 30, after which time, it was, by the agreement, to live with Mrs. H. Camilus, Bellevue, Eaton County, Mich.

—Louis Neiks, who lived at 670 North Clark, complained for his servant girl, Mrs. A. Rosier, of $50 and $50 Chicago avenue.

—John Ryan, 13 years old, lived on Bremer street; inquired for by his mother, Kate Regan, at Carpenter School.

—Margie Walther, inquired for by Mr. Pride, attorney at law, 52 State street.

—Frank Hoffman, worked at livery stable on North Clark street. Address Frank Adams, 389 Clark street.

—Ellen Howard, about 16 years old, lived with Mrs. Daily. Address Mrs. Scandian, 393 Wabash avenue.

—F. A. Hoffman, Jr., inquired for by H. Harrison, 140 Standen avenue.

—Edward Bradrib and George Leach, Englishmen, roomed together in the Donegan House, on South Clark street; the latter is a Mason in good standing. They are earnestly requested to address Mrs. H. H. Leach, No. 1015, corner of I and Eleventh streets, Washington, D. C.

—Louis Ludwig; inquired for by Louis Peterson, No. 32 Wentworth avenue.

—Erwin Hawes, and his wife Eliza P. Hawes, Geo. J. Haven and his wife Nellie, and Evaline L. Johnson, her sister, if in the city, will please address A. J. Sparks, Washingtonville, Orange County, N. Y.

—Nelson C. Smith, a money broker, who was in the law office of C. S. Bates and S. S. Hodges, will please address his son, C. E. Smith, 96 Fifth avenue, Louisville. Will any of the above parties report to Intelligence Office corner above Randolph street?

—Mrs Ellis will please call upon Lindauer, Levi & Co., 68 Buttenrin street.

—Frank Schmidt was in a saloon on Monroe street—will please address his mother, Frances Schmidt, 27 Barnard street, Roxbury, Mass.

—Frank Hiller, inquired for by his daughter, Catherine Arnold, of Aurora, Riverside.

—Miss Mary Cavanaugh, dressmaker; lived corner Wells and Division streets. Send to Mrs. Jones, 1036 Indiana avenue.

—Jane E. McKay, lived with Mr. Chappell, 306 Ohio street; inquired for by her son, T. D. McKay, now at the sheeman House.

—Mrs. Tobey, lived on Dearborn street near Erie; will please address Dr. McIlvaine, 1 Wabash avenue.

—E. H. Clark and family, and R. Burdett and family; inquired for by Emma Anderson, 400 Wentworth avenue.

—Harrison Gray; inquired for by her brother, John McNary, corner of Evans and Laflin street, West Side.

—Nelson Kegan and Bridget Kegan; inquired for by William Kegan, No. 15 Grace street.

—Amos Dodge, inquired for by S. B. Lincoln, 14 Peck court, late of New York.

—Lorraine Gabrilson will please call at 535 Fulton street.

—Henry Francis will find Charles Kelly at 413 Michigan avenue.

—Michael Murphy, inquired for by his wife, Bridget Murphy, at 58, Fulton's Church, on the West Side.

—Elizabeth Aird's mother is anxious to hear from her. Address or call upon Mr. Locke, at Grace Church, Wabash avenue.

—Richard Jenson, inquired for by John Jenson, his brother, now at No. 887 State street.

—Joseph Briggs and wife will please address E. Jacobson, No. 64 Fourth avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

INTERESTING TO THE BAR

Rules Adopted by the Supreme Court of Illinois.

On Wednesday, the 17th instant, the Supreme Court of Illinois, in session at Ottawa, adopted the following orders relative to the admission of attorneys, the October term, and the filing of briefs and petitions for rehearing:

Ordered, That Rule 76 of this court from and after the entry of this order be rescinded.

Ordered, further, That Rule 77 heretofore rescinded be and the same is hereby revived in the following manner: Any attorney or counselor at law in practice law in the courts of this State will be required to appear before the Supreme Court at the October term, 1871, at the first or third divisions, and then and there in open court, upon the motion of his counsel, touching his qualifications as an attorney and counselor-at-law, and shall also in and then produce to the court his certificate from some court of record of the county in which such person resides, showing that he has taken the oath prescribed by the Constitution, and the proper officer of the court shall enter the same of record.

Ordered, That Thursday and Friday of the first week of each term shall be the days on which such examination shall be had.

Ordered, That a copy of this order of this court appointing a term in the city of Chicago on the 31st day of October, be and the same is hereby rescinded on account of the burning of the court rooms and the library appropriated for the use of this court.

Ordered, That in all cases brought by appeal or writ of error from Cook county, entitled to be heard at this term, and not now in readiness for hearing, the appellant or plaintiff in error shall have until the 15th day of December next in which to file abstracts and briefs, and the appellee or defendant in error until the 20th to file briefs, and the appellant or plaintiff in error until the 30th day of said month in which to file his reply brief. In all cases from said county wherein opinions have been filed at this term either party may have until the 15th of November next in which to give notice of application for rehearing, and until the 25th of December next to file the petition. Counsel residing in the city of Chicago having been specially employed in cases not brought from Cook County may be entitled to the benefit of this order on application to the Supreme Court to that effect.

COUNTY RELIEF.

The Duties of Supervisors in the Outside Towns.

Supervisor Holland, Chairman of the Committee on Poor Houses and Paupers of the Board of Supervisors of Cook County, has addressed the following letter to the Supervisors of the outside towns of this county:

To the Supervisors of Outside Towns of Cook County:

As you are aware, the Board of Supervisors, at its session on Saturday last, adopted a resolution instructing you and each of you to enter at once upon the discharge of your duties as overseers of the poor in your several towns, as by law you are compelled to do. This special action was had by the board in view of the fact that thousands of the unfortunate ones were driven by the late conflagration in this city to the outside towns, and humanity demands that their wants be promptly and generously met; and, to save the county unnecessary expenditure, the undersigned was directed to secure the services of one or more of each township, if available, and obtain supplies from their respective towns, and report to the Supervisors for disbursement. I have endeavored to accomplish this, but without success, and there is now no alternative but for you to assume one or more half of the county, such supplies as the poor of your several towns may require, and such articles of clothing as may be absolutely necessary, and attend to its distribution; and to avoid unnecessary expense to the county, and deal justly by all, you will please visit all families who apply for aid immediately, to inform yourself correctly as to their necessities, and keep a correct record of the names of applicants and amount of supplies furnished, reporting the same from time to time in writing, together with a detailed copy of all bills of goods purchased to the Committee on Poor House and Paupers.

C. HOLLAND,
Chairman of Committee on Poor House and Paupers of the Board of Supervisors of Cook County.

Announcements.

The Relief Committee of the Chicago Society of the New Jerusalem desire all the members who suffered from the late fire to report to them at No. 231 Cottage Grove avenue, and their business will be attended to.

The Illinois Association of the New Church will meet at 11 o'clock to-day, at the Temple, corner of Thirty-third street and South Park avenue. All interested are requested to attend.

—The homeopathic physicians buried out in the late fire are requested to report at A. H. Pond's, No. 19 West Madison street, on Monday, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of organization.

ARCHITECTURAL.

Building Prospects in the Burnt District of the City.

A Large Number of Elegant Edifices Under Contract.

Building prospects in the city look more encouraging than ever. The prediction that Chicago would rise again is being verified more rapidly than any one could have ventured to anticipate. Every day the aspect of the ruined districts seems to undergo a change. The immense piles of debris which, a week ago, presented such a hopeless look, are being transformed into regular rows of brick, ready for the mason's hand. In fact, a large portion of the burned district already begins to look less like the ruins of a city than the foundations of a new one. In some places the foundations were being put in, literally before the bricks were all cool, and in one instance where workmen were busy building a wall, the flames were still seen issuing from the cellars.

We published, a few days since, a partial statement relative to the new buildings already commenced, in the old business portion of the city. Many important items have to be added to the list. Mr. John M. Van Osdell, who has now removal his office to Nixon's Building, corner of LaSalle and Monroe streets, has received orders for the immediate erection of a number of substantial buildings, of which the following are the most prominent:

Mr. John B. Drake has ordered the rebuilding of the Drake Block, on Madison avenue, which is to be completed in a style similar to the old building. It is characterized by the indomitable energy of Mr. Drake that the order for the erection of this twice-demolished structure was given the next day after the fire.

Cyrus H. McCormick has commenced the erection of three stores, 60 feet front by 180 feet deep, on Michigan avenue, south of Madison street, the site of one of the old McCormick buildings. The building will be five stories high, with stone or iron front.

Mr. McCormick has also commenced to build, at the north-west corner of Lake street and Michigan avenue, a five-story block, 64½ by 120 feet, for stores, stone or iron front.

The same gentleman has also ordered for the Michigan avenue, two-story, 30 by 180 feet, for stories high, at Nos. 19 and 21 Lake street; a five story building, 50 by 180 feet, on Lake street, also, on the site of the old McCormick building, corner of Dearborn and Washington streets; a five story building, 50 by 180 feet, for stores, offices, etc., at the corner of Clark and Washington streets.

The heirs of the Couch estate have ordered the erection of a five story building, 80 by 120 feet, at the corner of Water and Lake streets. A row of six stories high, at Nos. 19 and 21 Lake street, is to be a handsome brick front with stone facings, and will be occupied by Dry Goods.

The Couch estate is also building a four story brick building, 80 by 80 feet, for stores, on Randolph street, between Clark and LaSalle.

The old Tremont Block is to be rebuilt, with a frontage of 160 feet on Dearborn street and 180 feet on Lake street. It will be five stories in height, as formerly, and the exterior will be of brick, with a cut stone facing on the entire lower part of the block on Dearborn street will be a handsome entrance. On Lake street will be two handsome stores, 40 by 180 feet. The work will be proceeded with at once.

Hale & Ayre have completed the erection of a five story building, 72 by 130 feet, at the corner of Michigan avenue and Lake street. It will be the plan to the one destroyed on the same site.

The Oriental Building on LaSalle street is to be rebuilt at once by Mr. Wm. Bross, who has ordered for the same plan as the old one. The dimensions are 75 by 120 feet. It will be occupied as offices. Some improvements will be made on the old building, and will be constructed.

The Lee, Worrell & Co. block, on Lake street, between Fifth avenue and Franklin street, a four-story brick building, 125 by 180 feet.

The Insurance Exchange building, on LaSalle street, between Monroe and Madison streets, is to be rebuilt by the Republic Insurance Company. The work will be proceeded with immediately. It is 85 by 90 feet, five stories high, with handsome stone front. The Republic will be omitted.

Frederick Tuttle commences the erection of a five story building, 65 by 150 feet, at the northeast corner of State and Lake streets. It will be, in every respect, similar to the building which was destroyed, and will have an iron front on Lake street.

Potter Palmer resumes at once the erection of his grand hotel, at the corner of Monroe and State streets. It will be the most magnificent in general plan. Mr. Van Osdell was fortunate enough to save the drawings and plans upon which were worth about $5,000. He was driven from one office to another several times, and finally he buried in a vault with other valuables a number of valuable architectural books and drawings, which were found to have escaped the general wreck.

The first real estate transaction of any importance since the fire was made yesterday morning in the rains of the Fidelity Safe Depository, opposite the Court House, by Messrs. Bryan Brothers and Mr. T. B. Bryan the lot corner of Randolph street and Dearborn place, forty-eight feet on Dearborn place by eighty-two feet on Randolph street, for $50,000, equivalent to cash. The lot was purchased by Mr. Hinsdale a year ago for $40,000. Its estimated value before the fire was $60,000.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

Killed.

Kendit Wright, of Company K, Fifth Infantry, was killed yesterday morning. He had been on duty at the Custom House, and with a companion, started to the lake shore to wash. In returning they found a train of cars on the track at the foot of Madison street, and Wright stooped down to crawl under a car, his companion the opposite side. While beneath the cars the train commenced to move, and Wright attempted to rise, and the wheels caught the unfortunate soldier and crushed him to death. He was 36 years of age, and has a sister who lives near Quincy, Ill.

Restoration of Writing.

There are now in the city many very valuable account books which are esteemed worthless because of their exposure to the fire, but which are safer. An instance has come to light where a book of great importance to a business man in this city was restored after being badly charred. Persons who have books in this condition should address Prof. Gilbert Wheeler, Galesburg Business University, who has been successful in all the cases he has tried.

Storm Warnings.

The Signal Service Corps of the United States army have adopted a plan for signaling the approach of dangerous storms to the lake coasts and harbors. The signal is usually displayed from the building in which the principal meteorological observations are taken in the several districts. The Chicago station is now located at No. 19 West Randolph street, and the signal will probably be displayed from the top of Lind's Block, near Lake street. Night signals will also be observed. Explanations of the signal and its meaning will be found in the Custodian's room in the building. The cautionary signal is a red flag with black.

Sanitary Suggestions.

The Board of Health are desirous to call the attention of the people to the use of carbolic acid, and recommend that cans obtainable of Mr. Bird, corner of Lake and Dearborn streets, for each family. The use of these cans will not only purify the above-mentioned places but also the water that is now standing in cellars. Each of them, a matter of the greatest importance. By applying to the Board of Health, a supply can be procured on account of the burning of the county rooms and the library appropriated for the use of this court.

Ordered, That in all cases brought by appeal or writ of error from Cook county, entitled to be heard at this term, and not now in readiness for hearing, the appellant or plaintiff in error shall have until the 15th day of December next in which to file abstracts and briefs, and the appellee or defendant in error until the 20th to file briefs, and the appellant or plaintiff in error until the 30th day of said month in which to file his reply brief. In all cases from said county wherein opinions have been filed at this term either party may have until the 15th of November next in which to give notice of application for rehearing, and until the 25th of December next to file the petition. Counsel residing in the city of Chicago having been specially employed in cases not brought from Cook County may be entitled to the benefit of this order on application to the Supreme Court to that effect.

COUNTY RELIEF.

The Duties of Supervisors in the Outside Towns.

Supervisor Holland, Chairman of the Committee on Poor Houses and Paupers of the Board of Supervisors of Cook County, has addressed the following letter to the Supervisors of the outside towns of this county:

To the Supervisors of Outside Towns of Cook County:

As you are aware, the Board of Supervisors, at its session on Saturday last, adopted a resolution instructing you and each of you to enter at once upon the discharge of your duties as overseers of the poor in your several towns, as by law you are compelled to do. This special action was had by the board in view of the fact that thousands of the unfortunate ones were driven by the late conflagration in this city to the outside towns, and humanity demands that their wants be promptly and generously met; and, to save the county unnecessary expenditure, the undersigned was directed to secure the services of one or more of each township, if available, and obtain supplies from their respective towns, and report to the Supervisors for disbursement. I have endeavored to accomplish this, but without success, and there is now no alternative but for you to assume one or more half of the county, such supplies as the poor of your several towns may require, and such articles of clothing as may be absolutely necessary, and attend to its distribution; and to avoid unnecessary expense to the county, and deal justly by all, you will please visit all families who apply for aid immediately, to inform yourself correctly as to their necessities, and keep a correct record of the names of applicants and amount of supplies furnished, reporting the same from time to time in writing, together with a detailed copy of all bills of goods purchased to the Committee on Poor House and Paupers.

C. HOLLAND,
Chairman of Committee on Poor House and Paupers of the Board of Supervisors of Cook County.

INSURANCE AGENCY OF ARTHUR C. DUCAT

For the accommodation of our friends and customers I have opened offices on the West and South Sides. West Side office, 30 and 32 Canal-st., over William Blair & Co.; South Side office, 440 Wabash-av., over First National Bank. Risks taken in old and reliable Eastern insurance companies.

HOME INSURANCE CO., of New York, organized 1853.

CITIZENS' INSURANCE CO., of New York, organized 1850.

HOWARD INSURANCE CO., of New York, organized 1825.

My patrons having claims against any companies represented by me will please present the same for adjustment at the Canal-st. office, when, also, West and North Side risks will be accepted.

Those wishing insurance on the South Side will please enter the same at the office, 440 Wabash-av.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Every necessary information as to making proofs of loss, and the proper blanks of the same, will be furnished on application to me. We have an able corps of adjusters, and are willing to devote time and assistance to our patrons.

ARTHUR C. DUCAT.

LIVERPOOL & LONDON & GLOBE Insurance Company.

The losses by the great fire in this Company, which amount to about $3,000,000, will be paid immediately and in full.

Every facility will be given to those holding policies under which losses have been sustained in making proofs, for which uniform blanks will be supplied at the office on Wednesday (18th).

Authority having been given to draw on the head office in England for the full amount of these losses, the assets in this country (amounting to over $3,000,000) will remain, as before, in the hands and under control of the American Board of Directors.

The business of Fire Insurance will be continued as usual, and those who desire to effect insurance on property will please call at the office, as the Company has no solicitors.

TO OUR CREDITORS.

We have saved all our books, papers, etc., and will consequently be able to show, with exactness, the amount of liability to every creditor. We will, as soon as possible, prepare complete schedules embracing the names of all claimants, and the amounts due them respectively. Our creditors will then be notified in time to enable them to hold a meeting, or take such other steps for their protection as they may desire. We crave the generous indulgence of all until such statements can be prepared.

TO OUR PATRONS,

who hold Policies on property not affected by the great fire, we would say our Policies no longer afford a sufficient protection. Any information concerning the condition of companies, or assistance in procuring new insurance, will be cheerfully rendered by the officers of the company.

PROOFS OF LOSS

will be prepared for our customers and friends without further charge than the bare expense of employing notaries to perform the labor.

The undersigned wish to express their obligation to W. H. Young, Esq., proprietor of Peoples line of omnibuses, who, on the day of the fire, placed all his stages at the disposal of the citizens of the North Side, free of charge.

Stage No. 55, and driver were of the greatest service in saving our families and furniture, and although the stage was used by us from 2 o'clock until 7 p. m. Mr. Young has refused to accept any remuneration for the use of it.

We consider it a duty we owe Mr. Young, (as well as the driver, Mr. Cox,) to let the world know of it, to speak our own case publicly, as we have hard battles to fight ourselves against him, of extortion practiced upon the public, which we feel sure must have been done in the absence of orders given to his drivers, or he is too maliciously circumstanced to injure his business as he is doing. Among the many, we mention REV. EVERS JOHNSON, WM. A. SWING, ALEX. H. SWING.

To Our Patrons.
